Augustana to Say Goodbye to Outgoing President

Ken Frederick
The Daglightale

On the weekend of November 25 and 26, Augustana University College formally will say its goodbyes and thank-yous to its president, Glen Johnson, and to his wife, Jo Ann. He will leave office and his school at years's end. The longest-serving CEO of a Canadian institution of higher education now in office, he will have served 28 event-filled years as president when he stands down on December 31st.

"His imprint on this place is indelible," Sandra Anderson has observed. An Edmonton lawyer, she is chairperson of the university's governing board, which, through the efforts of a search committee, now is seeking a replacement. Augustana's 11th president, the Rev. Dr. Johnson was only in his mid-30s when, in January, 1968, he took on the presidency of what was then a high school and junior college. Now 62, and in the midst of his fifth consecutive six-year term, he directed efforts to transform the school: it is today an accredited, degree-granting arts and sciences university that emphasizes good teaching and provides a Christian context.

"His service and leadership here have been farsighted and consequential," Erhard Pinno affirms. Vice-president for student services, he chairs the committee planning the November 25-26 send-off. A trio of celebratory occasions is being arranged: a Saturday evening banquet and entertainment, which will take place at the Norsemen Inn in Camrose beginning at 6:30; a 10 o'clock Sunday morning worship service in the campus chapel; and, that afternoon at 2, also in the chapel, a special convocation at which the Rev. Dr. Johnson will give his valediction. As well, an informal luncheon after Sunday worship, and a tea following the assembly, are planned.

To show its gratitude to the Johnsons, the Augustana community will present several gifts, which have been commissioned for the occasion: works of art by professors Martin Giesen and John Beaver, and a composition by university organist P. Janson, which will be performed at the convocation. Other honors are being arranged.

What's more, the couple will be able to take a trip to a destination of their choosing—it's long been a university policy to award an excursion for 25 or more years of service.

As well, Augustana will provide an opportunity for others to express appreciation. In lieu of gifts, those who wish are invited to contribute to a new K. Glen Johnson Scholarship Endowment Fund. When a principal of $10,000 is reached, interest will be awarded on an annual basis as scholarships for worthy students.

Interim President Announced

Ken Frederick
The Daglightale

Kenneth Sauer will assume the interim presidency of Augustana University College in Camrose on January 1st.

From Medicine Hat, where he is president of Pyramid Management Consultants, Dr. Sauer, 63, will bring to the role broad administrative and management experience, particularly in education: over the course of 37 years, he has served as a teacher, principal, and superintendent of schools. He has "a deep and abiding interest" in education, he states.

His appointment will continue until a new president takes office. CEO for 28 years, Glen Johnson will leave the presidency and Augustana on December 31st. The search for his replacement is well underway, and the board of regents expects to make an appointment before winter's end.

"It is imperative that Augustana have a strong leadership in the interim, and the selection of Dr. Sauer ensures that it will", states Sandra Anderson, who chairs the university's board.

An Edmonton lawyer, she describes the interim president as "a leader of people" and a "person of action", and refers to his management and organizational skills as "excellent". What's more, he is well-connected, and is known to be an effective fundraiser, she adds.

Perception: it changes from person to person, age to age, and background to background. How we perceive something is as individual as our dimensions. A person can have a sunny outlook on events, or a cloudy one, and it will affect their life's direction. Everyone sees things differently, and this on the whole tends to be a good thing.

Even though we all live in the same world, we in fact all live in our own different worlds. The people I have had contact with, and the people that I will come into contact with in the future, all will affect who I was, I am, and will be. Because of this, the point of view that I bring with me into any situation will be unique.

How our environment treats us also affects our perception. If those around us treat us badly, we might not come into the various situations that we encounter in the course of life, in quite the same way as someone else who has been treated well around them.

Our point of view changes of course, in time, and through experience. It can become bitter, from cheerful, or enlightened from cynical and so on. It all depends on our point in life and what and who we are involved with.

Often, we forget to remember that not everyone sees things the same way as we do. The old cliché of there being two sides to every story still rings true. Still, when retelling our side of a story, we still somehow twist events, or descriptions to make us look better than the other person or people involved. Human Nature? Yes. Avoidable? Perhaps not.

Our perceptions can also affect how we treat others. This also in turn affects how they treat you in return. Often, the best way to get someone to treat you well, is to "kill them with kindness". People have a hard time treating badly someone who treats them well. As well, we have a tendency to respond better to those who look or act as we do. As unfortunate as it is, but in most cases, people react best when they are comfortable in a given situation. Hint: difference makes people feel threatened. How we perceive someone else thus greatly affects them, how we act and react towards those around us. Case in point: If a person disgusts us, we are far less likely to treat them with as much respect as compared to someone whom we accept, even if we do or don't know them.

How then can we change our perceptions? Try looking at the world from other perspectives. Experience life from outside of your window, instead open up others as well. Try new experiences. Remember those around you, and treat them as you would like to be treated. As the snow falls outside and the days get shorter, I continually remind myself that this can either be a miserable time or I can see it as a thing of beauty, that not every one gets to experience...(that only lasts another 5 months!) It all depends on how I decide to look at the situation.

Remember to Practice Random Acts of Kindness, and Senseless Acts of Beauty

"It's an underground slogan that's spreading across the nation... Senseless acts of beauty spread: A man plants daffodils along the roadway, his shirt billowing in the breeze from passing cars. In Seattle, a man appoints himself a one man vigilante sanitation service and roams the concrete hills collecting litter in a supermarket cart. In Atlanta, a man scrubs graffiti from a park bench.

"They say you can't smile without cheering yourself up a little-- likewise, you can't commit a random act of kindness without feeling as if you own troubles have been lightened if only because the world has become a slightly better place.

"And you can't be a recipient without feeling a shock, a pleasant jolt. If you were one of those rush hour drivers who found your bridge fair paid, who knows what you might have been inspired to do for someone else later? Wave someone on in the intersection. Smile at a tired clerk. Or something larger, greater? Like all revolutions, guerrilla goodness begins slowly, with a single act. Let it be yours."

Adair Lara

"It's the action, not the fruit of action, that's important. You have to do the right thing. It may not be in your power, may not be in your time, that there'll be any fruit. But that doesn't mean you stop doing the right thing. You may never know what results come from your action. But if you do nothing, there will be no result."

Gandhi

"We must be the change we seek!"

Gandhi

As Gandhi stepped aboard a train one day, one of his shoes slipped off and landed on the track. He was unable to retrieve it as the train was moving. To the amazement of his companions, Gandhi took off his other shoe and threw it back along the track to land close to the first. Asked by a fellow passenger why he did so, Gandhi smiled, "The poor man who finds the shoe lying on the track," he replied, "will now have a pair he can use."

Eleanor Roosevelt

In the world to come, I shall not be asked, "Why were you not Moses?" I should be asked, "Why were you not Zusya?"

Rabbi Zusya

President Calvin Coolidge once invited friends from his hometown to dine at the White House. Worried about their table manners, the guests decided to do everything that Coolidge did. This strategy succeeded until coffee was served. The president poured his coffee into the saucer. The guests did the same. Coolidge added sugar and cream. His guests did too. Then Coolidge bent over and put his saucer on the floor for the cat.

Announcing the establishment of The K. Glen Johnson Scholarship Endowment Fund honoring the distinguished leadership and service of the Rev. Dr. Johnson as president of Augustana University College.

It will provide a means by which worthy students will receive scholarships in the years to come.

Donations of any size are welcome. Donations-- which are tax deductible--made out to "Augustana University College", and naming the fund, should be delivered to the switchboard in Founders' Hall.

AUGUSTANA
UNIVERSITY COLLEGE

Cutbacks Hit Augustana

Ken Frederick
The Daglightale

Augustana University College will consolidate its operations to service approximately 850 full- and part-time students. This is about the number it enrolls now, and which it expects to enroll during each of the next few years.

"While Augustana expects enrollment to return to higher levels by the end of the decade," president Glen Johnson states, "as a private institution it does not have the luxury of deficit financing. It must remain financially stable, even as it continues to provide quality academic programs. The integrity of its degree programs will remain its major focus."

The institution, which now employs 165 persons, must streamline; it will begin almost immediately to downsize its workforce, and the task will continue during the academic year.

The staff complement will be reduced by the equivalent of 5 1/4 full-time positions; three other positions currently vacant will not be filled. These are middle management-level and support staff jobs. At this time, it's known that nine individuals will be affected, either in work reduction or layoff.

In the academic year, consolidation will occur by virtue of attrition, both natural and voluntary, program redundancy, and unpaid leaves. Already, a number of faculty members have chosen voluntarily to take reduced workloads or retirement, some effective on January 1. Other personnel changes on the faculty side will be made in the weeks to come.

Augustana will do everything it can, it has announce, to "assist those who are directly affected to manage their own transition well." Any who leave the employ of the university as a result of the consolidation will qualify for what it describes as "a generous severance package."

In general, positions which become vacant, in any area of the university, henceforth will require a special internal review to determine if they will be filled.

To further reduce expenditures, Augustana's senior administrators will shoulder an additional 3% salary reduction: all employees took a 5% rollback earlier this year. Other measures on the salary side are being weighed. Consolidation and reduction of operating budgets also are a consideration.

The university will employ all of these ways and means as it pursues a reduction in operations of approximately $800,00.

In a report to the campus community, the Rev. Dr.

Glen Johnson has pointed out, "We have done, and are doing, everything that we can to economize.

Unfortunately, reducing our work force now becomes unavoidable.

"The decisions we have reached have not come easily, and it is with deep sadness and grief that I share with you the news of layoffs or reduced workloads amongst our colleagues: these are individuals who have given so freely of their gifts and talents, and who have made significant contributions to our work and life. ...There will be an enormous sense of loss for all of us for a long time...."

Nevertheless, the Rev. Dr. Johnson made clear that, "In the midst of all of this, we must carry on with our appointed duties for the sake of our students, and for the sake of everything for which Augustana has worked so hard. The integrity and quality of the academic program remains.

"Indeed, the university continues to attract some of the best and brightest students from near and far: students from every province and territory in Canada, and from 13 other countries, are enrolled this year."

The decisions being made now, which he described as "wise and prudent", will help Augustana "to meet with confidence the challenges of the future."

Changes made to Augustana's Computer Policy

The Daglightale

The Advisory Committee on Academic Computer Services has revised the Conditions of Use governing the use of Augustana University College's computer facilities to allow recreational use of on-campus computers and the Internet connection during certain time periods.

Jonathan Mohr, Associate Dean, who is responsible for academic computing policy and administration, said, "Our objective in revising the policy was to respond to the request from students for a more permissive stance on the use of Augustana's computer facilities for game playing, while at the same time preserving free access to campus computers from course related work and protecting the Library's link to it's online catalogue." Augustana's Library catalogue is maintained on a computer in Edmonton as part of the NEOS consortium of libraries, and is accessed via Augustana's Internet connection.

The revised policy distinguishes between three types of use of the Augustana computer system: the use of Augustana's Internet connection, the use of on-campus computers in the computer lab and computer workrooms in the residences, and the use of dial-in connections to Augustana computers.

During Library hours, the use of the Internet is limited to the sending and receiving of e-mail messages. Other forms of Internet access, such as browsing the World-Wide Web with Netscape, transferring files and playing distributed multi-user games, are restricted to times when the library is closed.

The Library hours are:

Monday to Thursday
8:00am to 10:00pm

Friday
8:00am to 5:00pm

Saturday
10:00am to 5:00pm

Sunday
1:00 pm to 10:00pm

Computers in the computer lab and workrooms may now be used for game playing and other recreational purposes during selected time periods as posted in each computer lab and workroom. These times will be established according to the pattern of usage of computers for course related work. The policy assumes that students should be able to expect to use a computer in the computer lab or computer workrooms during the normal work and study times without having to ask another student to give up a computer being used for recreational purposes.

However, the policy also states that, since the use of the computer system for course related work should have priority over recreational use, any person using a computer in the lab of a workroom for recreational purposes when no other computer is available for use at that location must surrender the use of that computer when asked by a student desiring to use a student for course related work. To avoid putting other students in the potentially intimidating position of having to ask for the use of a computer, recreational users are also requested to ensure that at least one computer is available for work-related use at all times.

Since a very limited number of modems and telephone lines are available for off-campus users to call in to check their e-mail, read news, or download files, the revised policy prohibits the use of a dial-in connection for game-playing or other recreational purposes. Off-campus students wishing to use on-campus computing resources or the Internet for recreational purposes are encouraged to secure accounts with a local commercial Internet service provider.

The Conditions of Use were also revised through some editorial changes. The Terms and Conditions are now numbered for ease of reference. The suggestion that some upper-case letters might be used in a password was deleted, since not all systems -- in particular, neither the Novell network nor VMS on the VAX -- distinguish between upper and lower case letters in a password. The prohibition against the transmission and printing of offensive, indecent, or abusive matter was made explicit.

Copies of the revised Conditions of Use will be posted and available for pick-up in the computer lab and workrooms, will be made available in electronic form on the Novell network and on the VAX, and will be available from the receptionist in Founder's Hall.

Newest album in 3 years, and what can I say; this album rocks!!!

LANKMAR: LANKMAR
Sam Hell

To anyone who knows anything about metal, they realise that Canada has no true metal gods, until now. I mean, how many Canadian metal bands can you even name? Annihilator? too 80's. Econoline Crush? too techno. No, I'm talking about LANKMAR. Who? The metal band from Montreal. I just recieved their self-titled debut, and was blown away. Their sound is like a crowsss between Metalica and Helmet. Since their CD is not available in stores yet, you can hear them on PSYCHO HOLIDAY, Wednesdays at 7:00pm, on CLCR 101.5FM. If you like metal, you'll love LANKMAR!

Captain Tractor: East of Edson
Doug Stein

Well, if you havnn't already heard of this band, then you don't get out much do you? 'cus this band who was already doing very well across Canada with their debut CD "Land", is now doing excellent in Camrose as well. Thanx to catch songs like "Up the Hill" and "The Last Saskatchewan Pirate" and not to mention extensive airplay at the bar, this band is soon to become an Augustana favourite! Don't miss this band live at the Feedmill/ Rumours on November 11th. Come out and support a great Canadian Band, and if you don't already own a copy of "East of Edson", pick it up, you'll thank me! (and the band!)

DBS: Tales From the Crib
Steve Stein

As I sit here listening, it makes me think that these guys would rock live. One flaw like all junior high kids, is that they seem hooked on senseless profanic expressions, none the less, a good effort by a young band and label. Stand out tracks include "Racist School", "Freedom", "I'm Blind", and some comic relief with some short but amusing tracks, as well as full length songs like "School Sux" and "Snowball". So watch out Green Day, DBS is ready to rock, and your butts are next in line to get kicked!

This Fall's Drama Presentation: JB

Amanda Cardinal
The Daglightale

The Pulitzer prize winning play JB is to be performed by the Augustana Theatre centre on November 16-18 and 21-25.

JB is about the book of Job, retold by the two characters of Mr Zuss and Mr Nickles. Zuss and Nickles believe that they can retell the story of Job much better than previous attempts, by revising it to modern times.

Directed by Professor Morello, this serious drama raises a lot of questions, and through the dramatic process explores what a human suffers through different theological perspectives.

The cast is as follows:

Zuss: Chris Svennungson
Nickles: Craig Stephenson
Sarah: Jennifer Rippley
J.B.: Paul Donnison
Rebecca: Touné Luyendyk
Ruth: Roisin Bonner
Mary: Ingrid Mundel
Jonathan: Devin Bonner

Augustana Students Participate in Provincial Musical Groups

The Daglightale

Music Students Michelle Kennedy and Mark Bryson were chosen recently to participate in Alberta-wide honour groups.

Michelle was selected to sing with the 1995 Alberta Youth Choir which members are drawn from the most talented high school and university aged singers in Alberta. The Youth Choir completed a brief mini-tour, which culminated in a final performance at the Alberta Music Conference at the Banff Centre on Friday, October 27th.

Mark also performed at the Banff conference on trumpet as a member of the Alberta Wind Symphony. Mark, as well, was selected from Alberta's finest student musicians.

The Alberta Music Conference combines choral, band, string, and keyboard areas, and is the result of a partnership of the Alberta

Choral Federation, the Alberta Band Association, the Alberta String Association, and the Alberta Registered Music Teachers' Association. The conference is attended by music educators and performers at every level, from all parts of western Canada. Being chosen for a group performing for conference participants is a great honour. Our hats off to Michelle and Mark!

The Daglightale

The Fine Arts Student's Association is one of the many AUC clubs. Membership is open not only to Fine Arts' majors, but to anyone who is interested in the Arts. Our next general meeting is for all members and anyone who is interested. It will take place on Thursday, November 9th (that's tonight!), at 7:00pm in A024. Primarily, the agenda will be to plan our upcoming Christmas thing/activity/shenanigan.

As many of you know,

FASA has already begun Concert Band rehearsals. They take place on Wednesday evenings, and new members are still welcome.

FASA also supporting the Fall Art Exhibition, on November 17th and 18th. This art show begins at noon on the Friday in the Faith and Life building. Come on out and enjoy the art work of Augustana's students.

If you have any questions, ideas, etc., feel free to drop by the FASA office, located in First

Fall Fine Arts Exhibiton To Come To Augustana

The Daglightale

This year the Fall Fine Arts Exhibition will be combining studio art, music, drama and possibly other performance art in the exhibition. The exhibition has been set for the Friday and Saturday of November 17th and 18th, 1995 in the reception area of the Faith and life building. The exhibition will open at Friday, 12:00 noon, with opening ceremonies commencing at 12:30pm. There will be three studio categories to view: painting and drawing, photography, and ceramic and sculpture, as well as performances from music, drama and studio art departments.

The focus will be on emerging and innovative artists and their talents, as well as the past and current works of AUC students, staff and faculty members. The works of selected guest artists from the community and surrounding will also be exhibited.

There is no admission charge, but there will be an optional silver collection near the refreshments. Fifty percent of funds gathered from the collection will be donated to ECCASAT presented at the end of the exhibition. This exhibition is supported by FASA. This Issue's Taste Test: Instant Soup!!

...a new feature in the Dagligtale, that boldly goes where other tastebuds dare not to.

"Cup of soup! Whether it is being used to supplement a particularly bad meal in the cafeteria or as fuel for an all night cram session, it is what keeps many of us going."

Erik Bjorgan
The Dagligtale

There comes a time in every college student's life when he or she is faced with the problem of hunger. Unfortunately, the student is also faced with the simultaneous problem of money. Need money, need food. This is the constant struggle of the student, how to provide for their biological needs and pay for school and have enough money to go out on weekends. There is a compromise that most students eventually come to make, and that compromise is known as the Cup of Soup compromise. Cup of soup! Whether it is being used to supplement a particularly bad meal in the cafeteria or as fuel for an all night cram session, it is what keeps many of us going.

However, the staff of the Dagligtale feel that there is no need for us to suffer through a bad cup of soup. We must take pride in our poverty and be tough, smart consumers. The Dagligtale staff have boldly begun a new era in culinary satisfaction, with this, our latest triumph, the Cup of soup taste test.

We went down to Safeway and bought one flavour out of every line of soups they had in order to determine which were the best quality and which were the best deal. Our taste testing panel, consisting of much of the Dagligtale's staff, then rated the soups on a 5 point scale (1 being poor, 5 being excellent) in terms of taste, texture, and the quality of the ingredients. All of the results were then averaged to rate the soups overall. Without further ado, here is the lowdown. We hope it aids you in becoming cup of soup connoisseurs.

Sapporo Ichiban (Original flavour)☆☆☆☆
The original Ichiban noodles --An absolute classic, they aren't fancy but they are good! The texture of the noodles was awesome, they taste good, in general Sapporo Ichiban rated very high. The only negative note is the amount of packaging that the company uses - a styrofoam cup with a cardboard fold over cover and plastic shrink wrap on top of everything else. Also, the seasoning comes in its own package which is wasteful as well as inconvenient.

Townhouse (Garden Vegetable flavour)☆☆☆☆
The quality of the Townhouse brand was incredible considering the fact that it was the least expensive of all the soups we rated. The texture of the noodles was excellent, the vegetables were tender and sweet, and the flavour was very good. Of all of the soups rated, Townhouse deserves the best buy award. Though it rated slightly below the original Sapporo Ichiban cup of soup, the difference in price cannot be ignored.

Knor soup (potato and leek flavour)☆☆☆
This was one of the more interesting soups that we tested. If you like eating dust, that is. The $1.39 that it costs seems awfully steep for 34 grams of powder. The dust, once boiled, produced something that had the consistency of cream of wheat. But surprisingly enough, this soup tasted quite good. As a snack or just as a bit of a change it is worth trying. However, it isn't very filling so it doesn't fit in the emergency dietary supplement category.

Mr. Noodles (vegetable flavour)☆☆
The color of this flavour of soup (red) sparked comments from the testing panel ranging from "Cool, it's red." to "Yuck! It's red!". However, disregarding the coloring, these noodles were pretty good. The noodles were of the spoon size variety, so people who have prefer eating with their noodles with a fork shouldn't buy this brand. However, there was nothing disagreeable about the taste.

Knor pasta (primavera flavour)☆☆
This soup was hardly soup at all, it was similar in consistency to macaroni and cheese, with a very creamy sauce. It was very hardy and would satisfy hunger in a hurry. It would be a nice change from the standard noodle soup variety, as there is not much liquid. The only problem with this brand is that you should stir it well during preparation or there will be a problem with distribution of the seasoning. We had this problem and there were dry lumps of concentrated flavouring powder at the bottom of the cup, which made for a surprising taste experience.

Generic (mushroom flavour)Ⓢ
For being generic, these noodles are actually pretty good. Once again, there isn't anything all that special about these noodles. They are relatively bland but do have some flavour. The noodles have above average texture, the soup is fairly filling. As a means of eliminating hunger, these things do the trick. They are definitely worth the $0.69 that they cost.

Campbell's (Oriental flavour)ⓈⓈ
This soup looks good, has an above average texture, and tastes good initially but before long it becomes bland and boring. This soup doesn't command much attention. It is above average in its attributes, but there is nothing that is all that special about it. If faced with the choice between this and something cheaper, go with the cheaper brand.

Fantastic Foods (Cha Cha Chili flavour)ⓈⓈⓈ
This was one of the worst "soups" that we tried. It was somewhere between a soup and a chili, but that was its problem. It should have picked one identity and stuck with it. It had most of the texture of a chili, but it was too runny. Another serious problem this soup had was an almost complete lack of flavour. I mean, you expect a chili to have some kind of bite to it but this stuff had about as much flavour as wet cardboard.

Spice Islands (oriental vegetable flavour)ⓈⓈⓈⓈ
This was a very different style of soup. It was one of the more natural and exotic varieties tried by our panel. There were a wide variety of ingredients, and as far as vegetables go this soup delivered. The vegetables in the packaged outnumbered any noodles in the package by far. After following a set of relatively complex directions we ended up with something that looked delicious and smelled delicious. But... It tasted terrible. It was positively nauseating. If you were having company, you could cook this and show it to them and they'd be impressed by the way it looked and smelled, but after that you'd have to give them something else to eat because this is barely edible, it tastes so bad.

Nile Soup (parmesan couscous flavour)ⓈⓈⓈⓈⓈ
This soup's main problem was that it refused to stay homogenous. The couscous all sank to the bottom, the vegetables all floated on the surface. The vegetables were very tough, according to one member of our panel "you could shoot these vegetables like bullets" As it claimed, the soup did taste like parmesan, if you like that sort of thing. In general, this soup was pretty unappetizing and not worth the relatively high price. However, there are 10 other flavours of this brand available, maybe one of the others would be less disgusting.

The Daglightale

Hey there sports fans!
Well the Augustana Vikings Hockey team are in the third week of the ACAC hockey schedule. The team record so far this season is 1 win, and 3 losses. The team opened the regular season with a home and home series against the Red Deer College Kings (RDC). On Thursday, October 19, the team travelled to RDC and lost 8-3 and on Saturday, both teams played again in Camrose, and the Vikings came up short by a score of 7-3.

the October 13th to 15th tournament, the Vikings defeated the RDC Kings, 7-5, lost to SAIT, 4-1, and lost to NAIT 6-3. The next action for the Vikings is November 17 and 18, vs the Mount Royal College Cougars.

Until next time, see you at the rink!

Jenny Dewar
The Daglightale

I was sitting in Geo class at 8:00am, in one of those classes where everyone looks like they were just hit by a train and left to die in C167, when something caught my attention. The prof was talking about how different controls in the environment have a moderating effect on temperature-- you know it's a little bit cooler in the summer and a little bit warmer in the winter-- a smaller range of temperatures. And then I wondered... how come Camrose doesn't have any of these so-called moderators? I mean honestly, on October 29 there was snow on the ground and the temperature was -18C while only the previous weekend it had been +18C for the SLOW PITCH TOURNAMENT!!! That's a 36C change in the temperature in one week!! Where is the moderation?... But anyways, my point of this article is not to discuss the Camrose inconsistency with geo theories, my point is to tell you about the SLOW PITCH TOURNAMENT!!! On October 21, 70 people were at the baseball diamonds beside the aquatic centre at 9:30am to start a day of fun competition! In the morning, the teams played three one hour games to determine if they would make it into the semifinals to be held in the afternoon. During lunch, which was held in the Curling Rink lounge across the street, the Tournament committee busily calculated the standings-- a frustrating very frustrating job as three teams were undefeated, while two more hadn't won a single game that morning. In the end, the standings were determined through adding the points scored against a particular team-- the team with the least amount of runs scored against them would come out on top! The teams listened intently, as the Tournament Committee Chairperson read out the standings: Steamin Beef 2 had not made it to the semis, Chris's Team was in sixth place, the Sex Monkeys in fifth, fourth place was the Sharks, third the Red Socks, second place went to Snafu and the Piss Ants were in first place. This meant at 1:15pm, in the A division semis, the first place Piss Ants would play the fourth place Sharks, while the Plaid Sox (third place) would play Snafu (2nd place) and in the B division, the Sex Monkeys in 5th place would play Chris's Team (6th place). The teams all played hard but in the end, someone had to be a winner, and someone a loser. I won't make you wait any longer to find out who made it into the finals: in the A final, the Plaid Sox took on the Piss Ants, while in the B it was Chris's Team vs. Snafu. In the B final, everyone thought the outcome was pretty determined-- after all, in the morning, Snafu had been undefeated, while Chris's Team hadn't managed to win a game. But the game wasn't one sided at all; both teams played hard, vying for the B champion title and the 30$ that would go to the winning team. When it was all over, there was only one thing to be said: "The underdogs had come from behind and shown everyone what they were made of." ...Chris's Team came out on top and were the Official B division Champs!!! Now there was the A Final! The Plaid Socks came on strong as they took an early lead in the game. They held to this comfortable position well into the fifth inning and that's when things got interesting. The Piss Ants had enough-- they were ready to get in the game and do some serious damage... and damage was just what they did as they went on a hitting streak that just wouldn't stop! The teams were neck and neck in the fifth and sixth innings and then the Piss Ants made their move: They risked it all and in the end it was worth it, for, when it was all said and done, they were the ones who had been deemed the SLOWPITCH TOURNEY CHAMPS! They were they recipients of they 100$ they had played hard for! All in all, the day was a huge success and a lot of fun-- a big thank you to all who participated and a big congratulations to all the winning teams!

Isaiah 26:4

Strolling through F & L you cast a glance towards the transparent walls of the chapel. A group is huddled around the piano in the corner. In this brief moment your eye has caught a glimpse of the silhouettes and perhaps you try to distinguish familiar figures. As your push open the door to leave, faint music rises from the voices. It is Monday evening, and the liturgical choir is piecing together a song for the next chapel service.

A small group meets once a week to learn to sing to proclaim God's word and to have fun through music: We are a part of regular chapel services, either singing during communion or as a focus for a service.

Everyone is welcome to join in the singing or playing. If you have any questions contact Campus Ministry 679-1536, Naomi Queregesser 672-0232 or Linda Kristensen 672-2905.

Alcohol Awareness Week

Jenny Dewar
The Dagligtale

Alcohol Awareness Week, held October 15-20 was definitely a week filled with fun and a lot of learning. The week kicked off Sunday with a fabulous night of free bowling at Tab Lanes. As students, faculty and staff sipped on the free Pepsi provided, they had a chance to strut their stuff at the lanes - believe me, four strikes in a row was not all that uncommon! Anyways, the week continued to pick up momentum as posters magically appeared all over campus. "Hit the bars" took on a whole new meaning as did ANYTHING associated with bowling!!! Tuesday night, the Augustan Sexual Harassment Officers put on an educational and informative evening in the coffee house, whereas Wednesday, BYOB (Bring Your Own Banana) was followed later that evening by a mocktail and wing extravaganza in the Coffee House.

Thursday was also Dead Day on Campus; every 22 minutes someone on campus died in a simulation exercise that revealed how many people die every single day in North America from making the choice to drink and drive. Dead day made a powerful combination with the Norbert Georgett presentation which was also held Thursday at 11:00am in the gymnasium. Norbert, who was once an ambulance driver in the Saskatchewan area, has given up his career in order to travel around Canada and tell high school and college students what the realities of drinking and driving really are. He told story after story and showed slides after slide of what has happened because people drive while impaired. I can't begin to explain the reactions of the students and staff who attended the presentation. However, what I can reveal is how I felt as I sat there.

Up until a couple of years ago, I had never been affected by drinking and driving-- sure, I knew a lot of people who had received impaireds or who had hit the ditch as a result of drinking, but I had never known anyone who had died from it. It's true what they say: you always think that it will happen to someone else... until it actually happens. There are no words that can explain the pain that I felt... the loss that I experienced... the anger I had for the person that caused this hurt. And the worse part about it is that for the rest of my life, I know that no matter what I do, I will have no control over other people's actions. But what I do know is that I can control my own actions-- I can choose to act responsibly. I guess that's the message that Norbert Georgett was trying to get across on Thursday... and I know that that was the true message of Alcohol Awareness Week.

students who went trick or treating. For many, this was the first time in their lives. Students from Africa, Hong Kong, Nepal, Germany, and Canada greeted in their home languages and sang traditional songs for the pros and staff we visited. We huddled into warm porches, had snowball fights and filled our pockets with candy. The costumes were traditional ethnic outfits, such as African dresses, flags from many nations, and Canadian hockey gear. After all this fun, Mr and Mrs Pinno invited the students over to their home for hot chocolate and cookies. We each talked a little of our countries and our past and went on to discuss world religions.

Many thanks to the professors for great Halloween treats and smiles, to Mr and Mrs Pinno for their hospitality and to the international students for their enthusiasm to venture into a snowy, Canadian Halloween.

There are two major events that ISU would like to promote. One of the purposes of ISU is to make the people aware of multiculturalism in Canada and to promote cultural mix. To do this, we have proposed a program to have students make a presentation of their culture.

This will then be presented to junior high schools in and around the Camrose area. This is a great learning experience for others and with your help, we can make a difference in our next generation. You can include films, slides and souvenirs from your home country. If you are interested in participating in this program, please contact one of the members of the ISU or room C214 or call 679-1157.

Another event not only concerns international students, but those also who live great distances away. ISU hopes to set up a pick-up service for students who need to go to the airport or get picked up from the airport. We are looking for students who are willing to be a part of a "welcoming" group. This group will go to pick-up students from the airport. If there are students who need a ride to the airport, this is the service for you! For more information, please see an ISU member. If you would like to use this service, it is expected that you book your flights within a few days of the majority of the flights so pick-up will be more convenient. Remember, this service cannot exist without volunteer students who wish to volunteer to become a part of the "Welcome Wagon".

Message from the VP External:

Sue Storvick
The Daglightale

Just an update of what has been happening in the office of the V.P. External. Our SU hosted a meeting of some of the Alberta Private Colleges and it was a smashing success. All the schools represented are going back to their councils to propose the idea of an organization of private colleges. Our council has given the nod to such an endeavour. It was very enlightening to hear the institutional reports from the other institutions--we have many common problems, but we also have many common visions and goals. It will be an exciting new beginning.

I have put up an ACTISEC bulletin board so information can be posted for your consumption. There is so much good information circulating between the colleges and technical institutes. If you are at all politically inclined or are in the least bit interested in getting into the 'know' about what is going on at the provincial and federal level with post-secondary education, then come up and peruse the info.

Registration forms have gone out to the ACTISEC directorship for the November meeting here at AUC.

Lori, Brad, Avalee and I are in the process of interviewing candidates for our work experience position in the ASU office. This has been a valuable learning experience for us. Among other things, we constructed a set of questions that give us an insight into the candidate. Hopefully we will have a candidate on stream by the end of the week.

On Tuesday NOVEMBER 21 at 7:30pm in the chapel there will be a presentation by a member of the Camrose Police Service on 'Personal Safety'. A couple of years ago the 'Dag' published an article on the potential hazard/assault spots on the campus so we want to do a follow up on this. Together with RHC the SU will be sponsoring this event. There will be an opportunity for questions and answers after a short presentation. After this there will be a tour of the campus of the hazard spots where the presenter will give feedback on safety techniques, what to do in the event of an attack and so on. This will be a beneficial event and both men and women are encouraged to attend this learning opportunity.

A couple of last issues: the SU is contemplating an Environmental/Energy Conservation program. Please help us out with creative ideas. We were thinking the campus could have some kind of energy conservation contest where each building could be monitored for energy efficiency?? If someone was willing to take this on it could potentially be a fun thing! Also, if your birthday is February 29 please come up to the SU office and leave your name--we want to give you a really big birthday party!! Until next time--Sue

Avalée Harlton
The Daglightale

She would never forget the first words that he said to her: "Would you like fries with that?"...She managed to sputter out a response that hopefully be regretted of "Ummm...yes-- and your treat of the week as well!" He smiled to her and winked as he handed to her that week's toy. At that point, her body simply went zink. She HAD to find out who this boy was. He rocked her world.

A week later, the snow was softly falling to the ground. By then, Jane had scoured the campus for every single tidbit she could find to figure out about her mystery man. Not only had she found things out about him, she had also dragged her poor roommate into the whole affair, since she happened to have a class with the unsuspecting chap. Then, something happened when she was least expecting it. One day, she was climbing the stairs to the second level of Old Main, when she saw him coming directly for at her (actually, Dick was just descending the stairs, as she was climbing them!), Her heart didn't skip one beat, she could have sworn it could have stopped. He was so dreamy! Their eyes met just about as they were crossing each other's paths, and their worlds held still... they each stopped. The moment was frozen in time.

Just then, President Johnson came bounding down the stairs, ready to attend one more meeting, before his term end. "scuze me, coming through!" It ruined the moment. Jane shook out of the moment and continued along her way, but deep down inside, she knew that she would never, ever be the same.

Tom's love life, on the other hand, was not going so well. He was in fact, becoming miserable. Since his disastrous folly in the cafeteria, and the goulash, he was too nervous in her presence to even squeak out a "hello!" The poor boy simply did not know what to do.

Suddenly as he was wallowing in his own despair, he heard a knock at the door to his cramped, overfilled, messy dorm room. He called out to come in, and to his own surprise, in walked Judy.

"Hi! I was told that you knew how to play Chess... is that true?" Wow. What an entry. He was flabbergasted by this new turn of events he could barely speak. Unfortunately, for him, he at that point had not played Chess since grade 5, and so was a little rusty. Obviously, someone had misinterpreted him once or twice.

"uhhhh..." now was the time for him to make one of those ethical decisions about wether or not to actually tell the truth or not. "Yeah, sure-- 'love the game... I didn't think that anyone around here played much." that's right-- he'd thought that story would get by.

"Well I havn't the time for a game right now, but how about we get together tomorrow night? ...I mean, if you're interested, that is"

He was ready to die right about now. "Sounds... great" he sputtered. He now had about 24 hours to remaster the game of Chess. Lucky him.

ROXY

Where did my keys go?
Where did I leave my coat?
And where did I place my head?

The day her mother warned her about... Roxy's head became detached and she lost it too.

Chaotica UNIVERSITY

I wish
my country were truly united my essay was done
he walked me home
my throat didn't hurt so badly.

I hope
I don't have car troubles
I run into Kevin
I go to Subway soon
I recieve mail from somebody tomorrow.

I believe still waters run deep you can't always get what you want the times they are a changin'
that you'll give me another chance.

Top 5 Advantages That The Ravine Has Over The First Year Complex

5. Seniors always get the parking spot closest to the mall door because they're wheelchair accessible
4. You have more money because you always save on seniors discounts.
3. The cafeteria food is always pre-strained, just so you don't have to chew.
2. You only have an hour's drive to the nearest "Club for Men"
1. You're older, you're greyer, and doggone it, we respect our elders.

Top 5 Reasons Why Freshman Kicks ____:

5. It's too bad you didn't notice that we've hit puberty, and it's even worse that you'd actually invite us to sleep over.
4. We're glad we have security guards who will protect us from overanxious Ravine boys.
3. It's true that you don't have to worry about the "Freshman 15"--you've moved onto the "Ravine 20"
2. The only reason why you don't have room hours is because we shouldn't tell Senior Citizens what to do.
1. We're smarter, better looking and doggone it, you want us!

LOOKING FOR FUN ON THE FARM?

You may be just the person
this family is looking for.
From approximately April 23 to May 20, 1996, we need a live in helper.

We live only 2 1/2 miles from Camrose on a farm in a beautiful, newly renovated home. The four oldest children, (girls ages 9 and 11, an boys aged 13 and 15) all go to school. Katrina is a beautiful little 2 1/2 year old who will need the most attention and play time.

Your responsibilities would include: cooking, cleaning, laundry, driving and getting groceries. My van would be provided so a valid driver's licence is a must.

If you are interested, please contact Liz Rolf, box 1902, Camrose AB, T4V 1X8, or call 672-6740. At the time of contact, we can discuss wages, days off, etc.

Top 10 Reasons Why Quebeckers should be thanking their lucky stars they are still part of Canada:

10. For the time being, they'd still recieve transfer payments without having to generate their own dollars.
9. Because as Westerners, we love them so much, and identify with their alienation.
8. They can still use Ralph Klien as a role model.
7. Because they now can play a leading role in the decentralization of Canada.
6. Now they don't have to worry about the Bank of Canada recalling all the old currency and issuing new bills.
5. Like the rest of us, they are still a part of a dysfunctional family.
4. Two words: Canadian Passport.
3. The Bloc can still represent them in Parliament
2. They won't have to worry about the further denigration of the French language by having to use English to conduct international relations.
1. They still might have a chance of being recognized as a distinct society.
